INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Board of Directors and Shareholder of Ardellis Insurance Ltd.

Qualified Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of Ardellis Insurance Ltd. (the "Company"), which comprise the balance sheets as of December 25, 2021 and December 26, 2020, and the related statements of income, comprehensive income, stockholder's equity, and cash flows, for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements (collectively referred to as the "financial statements").

In our opinion, except for the omission of the information described in the Basis for Qualified Opinion section of our report, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company as of December 25, 2021 and December 26, 2020, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Qualified Opinion

Management has omitted disclosure of short-duration contracts that accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires to be presented in and supplement to the financial statements. In our opinion, disclosure of this information is required by accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of the Company and to meet our other ethical responsibilities, in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audit. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our qualified audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for a period of one year after the date that the financial statements are available to be issued.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control-related matters that we identified during the audit.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (U.S. GAAP), which requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, and the reported amounts of revenues, and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The following are the significant accounting policies adopted by the Company.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all time deposits and highly liquid debt investments purchased with an original maturity of ninety days or less as cash and cash equivalents.

Investments

The Company classifies its fixed maturity investments as available-for-sale with the changes in fair value of unrealized gains or losses, net of deferred taxes, reported as a separate component of comprehensive income or loss until sold. Realized gains and losses on the sale of fixed maturity investments are accounted for in the income statement.

Notes to Financial Statements
(Expressed in United States dollars)
December 25, 2021 and December 26, 2020

2. Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

Reserve for Losses and Loss Expenses

Reserve for the provision for unsettled, reported losses is based on estimates of the final settlement.

The provision for losses incurred but not reported is based upon a review of the past loss experience estimates of management and actuarial evaluation. The final settlement of losses may be materially greater or less than amounts provided. Any such differences, when they become known, will be recognized in current operations.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

Fair value disclosures with respect to certain financial instruments (as defined by Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 825, Financial Instruments) are included separately herein where appropriate. The carrying values of other financial instruments approximate their fair values due to the short-term nature of the balances. These include due from parent, loans receivable, factored receivables, insurance balance receivable, loss escrow funds, income tax payable, and accounts payable and accrued liabilities.

Premiums

Premiums written are recognized on a pro rata basis over the terms of the policies.

Premiums written that relate to future periods are reflected as unearned premiums.

The Company may examine and audit the Parent's books and records at any time during a policy period and within five years after the final termination date of a policy. Any resulting adjustment to premium is reflected in the period they become known.

Interest Income

Interest income comprises income earned on cash and cash equivalents, common stock, marketable securities, factored receivables, amounts due from parent, and loans receivable.

Income Taxes

The Company has elected to be treated as a United States of America domestic insurance company for United States of America federal income tax purposes. The Company records its income tax liability and deferred tax assets in accordance with ASC 740, Income Taxes. The Company records deferred income taxes, which reflect the net tax effect of the temporary differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities for financial reporting purposes and the amounts used for income tax purposes. A valuation allowance is recognized, if based on the weight of available evidence, it is more likely than not, that some portion or all of the deferred tax asset will not be recognized.

New Accounting Standards

New Accounting Standards – Not yet Adopted

Credit losses

In June 2016, the FASB issued a new credit loss standard ASU 2016-13 that changes the impairment model for most financial assets and certain other instruments. The guidance will replace the current "incurred loss" approach with a more forward looking "expected loss" model for instruments measured at amortized cost and will require entities to record allowances for available-for-sale debt securities rather than reduce the carrying amount. This guidance is effective for fiscal periods beginning after December 15, 2020 for public entities and effective for fiscal periods beginning after December 15, 2022 for all other entities. The Company is currently assessing the impact this guidance will have on future financial statements and related disclosures.

3. Investments (continued)

In evaluating credit losses, the Company considers a variety of factors in the assessment of a security including: (1) the time period during which there has been a significant decline below cost; (2) the extent of the decline below cost and par; (3) the potential for the security to recover in value; (4) an analysis of the financial condition of the issuer; (5) the rating of the issuer; and (6) failure of the issuer of the security to make scheduled interest or principal payments.

Based on the factors described above, the Company determined that no credit losses existed for the Company's investments in fixed income securities.

Fair value measurement

The Company follows ASC Topic 820, Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures, which provides a consistent definition of fair value, focuses on exit price, prioritizes the use of market-based inputs over entity-specific inputs for measuring fair value and establishes a three-tier hierarchy for fair value measurements. This topic requires fair value measurements to be classified and disclosed in one of the following three categories:

Level 1: Financial instruments with unadjusted, quoted prices listed on active market exchanges.

Level 2: Financial instruments lacking unadjusted, quote prices from active market exchanges, including over-the-counter traded financial instruments. Financial instrument values are determined using prices for recently traded financial instruments with similar underlying terms and direct or indirect observational inputs, such as interest rates and yield curves at commonly quoted intervals.

Level 3: Financial instruments not actively traded on a market exchange and there is little, if any, market activity. Values are determined using significant and unobservable inputs or valuation technologies.

In certain cases, the inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement in its entirety falls has been determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement of the asset or liability. The Company's assessment of the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgment, and the Company considers factors specific to the asset or liability.

The Company reviews its investments measured at fair value and discusses the proper classification of such investments with its investment advisors. The Company's review process includes, but is not limited to initial and ongoing evaluation of methodologies used by outside parties to calculate fair value, where information is available, which includes selecting securities sold and comparing the executed prices to the fair value estimates from the pricing services. The Company values its investments using published market prices.
